ACTION ITEM: Carlos Reyes to publish the approved minutes on the workspace.

Wes Hardaker encouraged all participants to understand all perspectives during the discussion.

Carlos Reyes read the list of participants and their affiliations.

Overview of Current GWG Proposal
Ted Hardie noted the joint aim of the GWG and Root Server Operators (RSOs) is to build a governance model that supports the root server system (RSS) as a stable and evolving part of the Internet. Ted Hardie highlighted the affiliate structure of Public Root Services (PRS), noting the examples of Public Technical Identifiers within ICANN and the IETF LLC within the Internet Society (ISOC). The IETF LLC provides focus within ISOC. This same structure within ICANN intends to focus PRS on root service. The checks and balances in this model are different from the RSSAC037 model. Ted Hardie explained that the governance model needs authority at two different timescales.
Overview of Current RSO Feedback
Lars-Johan Liman summarized the current feedback of the RSOs. The RSOs are concerned about:
1. Loss of checks and balances
2. Loss of RSO independence
3. ICANN affiliate structure
4. Lack of details

Lars-Johan Liman clarified for Ted Hardie that the GWG is the first time all RSOs have experienced representation by a group of RSOs. Lars-Johan Liman also stressed the importance of preventing capture of an RSO or of the entire RSS.

Brad Verd reiterated the point that RSSAC037 was written with the expectation that RSS governance would exist within the ICANN multistakeholder model. Brad Verd noted that the RSOs are working on a list of success criteria for RSS governance and are also exploring the Supporting Organization model in more detail.

Robert Carolina clarified that the three RSO representatives in the GWG cannot bind the other RSOs. Ted Hardie asked how the GWG should engage with the RSOs. Jeff Osborn stated that the Internet Systems Consortium has zero representation on the GWG. Robert Carolina suggested that the list of success criteria for RSS governance could help determine a way forward. Wes Hardaker agreed that involving all RSOs is important.

Discussion of Next Steps
Ted Hardie noted that the work of the GWG is always available for review. Ted Hardie also explained that the GWG charter specifies how votes are allocated if consensus is not achieved. Ted Hardie further elaborated that achieving consensus may take more time because of input from other stakeholders.

Wes Hardaker suggested more joint meetings between the GWG and RSOs would be beneficial. Robert Carolina stated that the RSOs want to help the GWG develop a proposal that has the most chances of success. Suzanne Woolf encouraged the participants to understand the different perspectives on capture and risk.

Ted Hardie asked about a timeline for the RSO list of success criteria for RSS governance. Brad Verd noted that the RSOs are aligned and need to develop a document. Ted Hardie encouraged GWG members to inform their communities about expected changes to the GWG proposal. Lars-Johan Liman suggested waiting to schedule the next joint meeting until the RSOs make more progress. Brad Verd estimated mid-to-late September 2021.
