Unidentified Participant: Rob And yet not, I will write an email for other forms of communication, but I can ask them to respond (inaudible).

Unidentified Participant: Yes, good.

Unidentified Participant: I saw that Steve Crocker has forgotten to respond. The seventh question of it is there a need in the evidence for recuperation function for extraordinary events at the managerial level, and the managerial board within ICANN. He didn't respond to that.

Unidentified Participant: Okay, I'll try to talk with him and get the feeling, even in that.

Unidentified Participant: I have read some (inaudible) compiled reports, draft report, from the 18th of November. I think it looks very promising.

Unidentified Participant: Yes.

Unidentified Participant: Good.

Unidentified Participant: It is a work in progress, but it's--.

Unidentified Participant: Yes, good work. It's good work. And that is more or less what we, it's a good example of what we are aiming at.

Unidentified Participant: Exactly, exactly.

Unidentified Participant: Andres, is everyone ready for us? Andres, did you read Simon McAlla? We know he's on mute, so--.

Andres Piazza: I'm sorry. I still have no chance to look at it. I will review it by the end of this week, so I will try to be as quick as possible.

Unidentified Participant: Very good. (Inaudible), have you begun to find some patterns? Have you been able to start wrapping something, even assuming that which may be that we don't get responses from Bertram, from Rob and from Jeff, or that they are, again, missing in critical points like Keith did.

Unidentified Participant: The answer is no. But the ambition is to do it. Up until today, this morning, I have been very busy. So we have, the (inaudible), as I told you before, about two days. And then after, we had a summing up and trying to put down the impressions of, under (inaudible) on the exercise, so for the last (inaudible). And this week, we had the Internet Day, so it's a big conference, together with that (inaudible) and other constituencies that we--hello?

Unidentified Participant: That conference seems to be going pretty well.

Unidentified Participant: So, and then today I made a speech about a report that I compiled that's a type of a robust electronic communication, a guide for users on buying equipment. And that's what I took into it, out of the five-day conference, on the third day, on the dais in Stockholm. But now I have much more time from now. But I was not, this conference call, this should have come some days later for me. That would be more ideal. But because of another one in a week or so.

Unidentified Participant: Yes, we're pressured, too. Well, see what you can do for next week. I'm traveling next week, and they will go get the schedule of the events where I will be. This will be in Costa Rica, so it's in my (inaudible), my same time zone or (inaudible). Yes, I'm only three hours away from here. And it won't hurt to look up the--I mean, it won't be in Campo Silvia. Campo Silvia is really a nice one in the outskirts of San Jose. I'm going to go to a meeting down more like, downtown San Jose. I know the place and (inaudible) use of (inaudible). San Jose is not really a very nice city itself, but everything around it is fantastic. So don't even plan on a seated tour, stuff like that. Just plan on the, you know, to visit with nature around.

Unidentified Participant: Could you send the name of the hotel?

Unidentified Participant: Yes. It's on the ICANN site and I understand that what occurred already in Dakar is that it was blocked already, so the words there were legal words (inaudible). I'm sure many of these are made by travel agencies, but so, I'll find out, especially after I go there. I'll see what people tell me. I mean, I'm going to a (inaudible) meeting there, and I expect to see people who are involved in the local organization before the ICANN meeting to find out how everything is going.

Okay, so coming back, so Andres, do you believe, if I say that you may be able to start drafting in the, let's say, or doing your analysis work and drafting specs at the end of this week, is that fair?

Andres Piazza: Yes.

Unidentified Participant: So we could, let's say if we talked a week from now, we could see whether you have encountered some particular difficulties on the (inaudible), again trying to, have some work to do now, trying to get responses from people, or maybe you need some additional clarification, and stuff that they can intervene against.

Unidentified Participant: I've not had, perhaps, inputs from Ron and Jeff.

Unidentified Participant: Okay, I'll work on that for you.

Unidentified Participant: Okay. I'll try as much as I can the coming week.

Unidentified Participant: Okay, good. Very good. Andres, how are you doing?

Andres Piazza: I'm good, thanks.

Unidentified Participant: I (inaudible) and I wondered whether you have obtained all the inputs on (inaudible) tape that you need, or do you still need something more?

Andres Piazza: You know, my feeling is that there is nothing hidden, so I think that's, that everything from the year are public sources, so the answer I got to severe case for the moment in case someone has some question to ask, but at this moment, I'm fine.

Unidentified Participant: Okay. Yes, I believe that also what was published is pretty useful for a good, helpful report, and there may be some questions to be integrated with the rest. It would be very useful to have a draft from you pretty soon, no matter how rough it is. But those, to sort of proceed there (inaudible) related, and not only to reporting the incidence, but whether it shows something that we should get, especially into our analyses, and mostly into our recommendations.

Andres Piazza: Okay, okay. I'll look at it soon.

Unidentified Participant: So if you can send something by Monday, if you can do something between now and the weekend, and for during the weekend, it would really be very helpful, because as you have mentioned, the public record on the (inaudible) is pretty detailed, and it's very heartening in the sense that there was a lot of cooperation between parties.

But what we don't know is whether we will have some questions like how were these lessons absorbed, what changed in ICANN or in the collaboration between ICANN and other parties. And that way, we would need to have a quick draft from you to see how it integrates into the rest of the half-hour sections and also to match it against something Juan's writing there.

We have already Simon's draft, so you can use it and see whether, as you write something from the conflict or incident, you can identify some gaps. I mean, we're not going to be looking at, as I've always said in the project, we are not only looking for the bad stuff, we're not only looking for the gaps, but also we're looking to see like the good signs. So if you see something that Simon says, leaves open or finds lacking and you have evidence that it's not that bad, that's also important.

Andres Piazza: Okay. I'll try my best, and I think I will be able to deliver something by Monday.

Unidentified Participant: Okay, perfect. David Cake isn't with us. Alice, do you want to cover the report from David, right? Whether he has joined or he has responded to your (inaudible)?

Alice Jansen: No, I haven't. He's not on the call, I'm afraid. No.

Unidentified Participant: Okay, so on my side, I'm waiting for Bill's report. I have a part of it, and I can do some analytic work. I have to still obtain approval from the people whom I interviewed in Rome, whether my report on their interviews they agree with. I'm going to press to get that done by over the weekend. It's not a big (inaudible), but some of the statements may be critical.

So I know what they said and I know how to use it, but I want to be sure that I can have that interview on the record as an annex to the report, so that's one small piece of work. And the other is very sensitive things that Martin and Bill have been collecting about the NTIA's directions and routes and directions and so forth. So they hope also to be able to work this weekend. And then you guys draft, at the latest, on Monday. And Andres, as much as you can share from your inputs, that will allow me to move, force me to make a forecast of what will be there in order to at least structure my general draft around it and wait for the actual content to come.

Well, anything else? Do you need any support?

Unidentified Participant: I can send a mail if I need some more information or help.

Unidentified Participant: Okay. And the main (inaudible). Andres, do you need any support?

Andres Piazza: No, I think everything is fine, and I'll let you know in case that something goes wrong, but everything is fine so far.

Unidentified Participant: Very good, okay. So I'll try to get input or feedback from Bill and from David and I'll try to share it with you as soon as that's in. And otherwise, I think that the rest of them won't join the call. (Inaudible) as everybody's past that, and not having heard from David, and my forecast is a few (inaudible). So if you agree, we can adjourn.

Unidentified Participant: Okay. I think you're right, yes.

Unidentified Participant: And I'll be in contact with them separately.

Unidentified Participant: Okay.

Unidentified Participant: Okay, so let's adjourn, and we'll pick up a meeting, we'll see if we can pick up a meeting for next week. But certainly I will be looking forward to your drafts or news by Monday.

Unidentified Participant: Okay.

Unidentified Participant: Very good. Have a good day or evening, whatever you're facing. You're in the evening, right? You're both in Europe.

Unidentified Participant: Yes.

Unidentified Participant: Goodbye, Alice.

Alice: Bye, take care.

Unidentified Participant: Bye.

Andres Piazza: Okay, thank you very much, goodbye.
