

Sergio Salinas Porto, is a web developer, teacher of ICT `s and a social activist defending the rights of Internet users in their country, with over 12 years of experience. He chairs the Association of Internet Users: Internauta Argentina (Argentina Asociation Internet Users).

Founding member and first president of the Federation of Latin American Internet users (FLUI), and is currently vice president.

Leads projects of shortening of the digital divide.

Member of the Democratic and Popular Communication Forum based in Mar del Plata. Secretary of Communications: Central of Argentine Workers delegation Mar del Plata (CTA).

Has launched several national laws and programs related to communications and ICT, as the Law of audiovisual media (N 26.522).

He has participated in Conectar Igualdad, a program to promote Internet access and digital inclusion.

Author and sponsor of the bill: "Access to the Internet free and equal."
Director of the Support Committee's Internet Day in Argentina.

TV and radio host on public policy issues, Internet governance, issues of domain names and numbers and technological advances.

Participate in ICANN since 2005 and was a founding member of the first ICANN RALO in 2006, forming the LACRALO.

Sergio Salinas Porto was chosen as the LACRALO ALAC Member since December 2010.

In ICANN 42 in Dakar, spoke at the Public Forum with the Board on the ccTLD of the Falkland Islands, South Georgia and South Sandwich that despite the dispute over the sovereignty of Argentina over the territories have been granted as if they were sovereign entities.