

With a Ph.D. in International Relations and expertise in digital accessibility, internet governance, and policy formulation, I bring valuable insights to the table. My extensive involvement in organizations like ISOC, IGF-DCAD, APRIGF etc. demonstrates a commitment to inclusive policies in the digital sphere. Serving on boards and multi-stakeholder groups, I have proven ability to make informed decisions in collaborative environments. As someone with lived experience of disability, I offer a unique perspective on advancing accessibility and inclusivity for the NomCom. My track record of research publications underscores my intellectual rigor and strategic prowess. These qualifications along with my understanding of ICANN's mission, make me well-suited for the NomCom role.
