

01:03:53 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): @Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org I hope you can survive the entire call
01:04:48 Greg Shatan: Hi all, I need to leave after 55 minutes.
01:04:59 Setondji Hounzandji: @Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org Hoping for a speedy recovery!
01:05:08 LILIAN IVETTE DE LUQUE: Hi all
01:05:19 Lavish Mawuena Mensah_AFRALO: Good evening to all and Speedy recovery, @Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org
01:07:03 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Welcome to the Consolidated Party Working Group (CPWG) on Wednesday 18 September at 19:00 UTC.

To follow along with the RTT: <https://www.streamtext.net/player?event=ICANN>

01:08:47 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Welcome to all those who have just joined 01:09:28 Sara Caplis - ICANN Org: Dear Hadia, please choose English from the menu when you have a moment.
01:14:25 Cheryl Langdon-Orr: FR
01:14:49 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Apologies for the interpretation issue - all sorted!
01:16:53 Cheryl Langdon-Orr: seems a 'very long bow to me'
01:17:57 avri doria: so another act in the overabundance of caution. even when there is no known possible example.
01:18:24 Cheryl Langdon-Orr: Replying to "so another act in th..."

SIGH - so it seems

01:19:50 Sara Caplis - ICANN Org: Dear all, Kind reminder to select the language you will speak, including English, from the interpretation menu.
01:22:02 John McCormac - HosterStats.com: It could be done and probably will be done if there's a demand for it.
01:23:00 Roberto Gaetano: I apologise for being late
01:23:05 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Hadia - please speak slower
01:24:57 Cheryl Langdon-Orr: The wording on the left relating the '...data privacy concerns...'
01:25:32 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): Thank you all
01:25:39 John McCormac - HosterStats.com: Three possible ways of building such a tool exist. The first precomputes variants based on existing registrations. The second is a dynamic lookup using DNS. The third would use WHOIS/RDAP.
01:25:54 Alan Greenberg: Given that all of the allocated anmes are public in the zone file, this whole things seems completely silly!
01:26:02 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): Reacted to "Given that all of th..." with 👍

01:26:08 Cheryl Langdon-Orr: Hadia and Satish should be told if we are all comfortable with the language for #15

01:26:39 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): @Alan Greenberg your are correct all allocated names are public in the zone file

01:27:06 Olivier MJ Crepin-Leblond: @Cheryl Langdon-Orr I believe that with no further comments, participants on the call are happy with the language that was in the left column

01:27:25 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): And that is what was said during the call - so we did not really understand the legal advice that we received, however we cannot ignore it

01:27:42 John McCormac - HosterStats.com: Not all registered domain names are in the zone files. Some have no DNS. But that's a minor concern with this.

01:27:46 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): Reacted to "And that is what was..." with 👍

01:28:41 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): @John McCormac - HosterStats.com we are talking about allocated variants

01:29:24 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): So we are not concerned with allocatable variants that have not been allocated yet

01:29:33 John McCormac - HosterStats.com: Replying to "@John McCormac - Hos..."

Can even apply to allocated variants if they have no DNS. The zonefiles include domain names and nameserver pairs at the most basic.

01:29:51 Gopal Tadepalli: @Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member) Good to keep some "stop phrases" such as '...data privacy concerns...' so that the Registrars may want to think before sending out the information. - Dr. T V Gopal, Anna University, Chennai, INDIA

01:30:14 Jonathan Zuck: Inclined to agree

01:31:20 Eunice Perez: yes

01:31:45 Eunice Perez: it's correct

01:32:20 John McCormac - HosterStats.com: Replying to "@John McCormac - Hos..."

The first domain name should be checked at WHOIS level to see that it exists rather than at a zonefile level. The any variants should be checked at WHOIS level rather than zonefile. (This gets around the dark domains problem.)

01:32:57 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Avri - please speak slower

01:33:05 Patrick Kiiza: Can someone still join and volunteer or its too late @avri doria

01:33:13 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: A kind reminder to all to please speak at a reasonable speed?

01:34:53 Gopal Tadepalli: @Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member) To my mind, three parties are responsible for carrying out a domain registration - the registry, registrar, and registrant. This tripod is necessary for resilience. Please recheck on leaving out the Registry. - Dr. T V Gopal, Anna University, Chennai, INDIA

01:35:12 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Patrick - the floor is yours

01:35:53 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Patrick - your audio is bad.

01:35:59 Pari Esfandiari: i have difficulty to understand

01:36:02 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: We are not able to hear you

01:36:18 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Patrick - you may wish to write it in the chat

01:36:18 Pari Esfandiari: .may be he could write in chat.

01:37:08 Patrick Kiiza: sorry for my internet but I will type in the chart

01:38:03 Eunice Perez: I have been working on the issue of multilingualism in my community, especially with professors to analyze the curriculum proposed by UASG and how to bring the technical issues to the universities.

01:39:13 Eunice Perez: I have been working on the issue of multilingualism in my community, especially with teachers to analyze the curriculum proposed by UASG and how to bring the technical issues to the universities. I would like to talk about the role of universities for the training and dissemination in students and teachers on the IDN issue.

01:41:45 Gisella Gruber - ICANN Org: Wednesday 25 September at 14:00 UTC

01:42:56 Gopal Tadepalli: <OBSERVATION> ICANN has tasked the Registries with being the first line in resolving disputes regarding conflicts over names. This requires them to take record-keeping seriously. Beyond the minimum ICANN registry rules, the different registries can set their own conditions for buying one of their domains. So unless Registry rules are taken seriously it is difficult to get on to the top when it's time to review the evidence in case of a stolen domain. Hopefully, I got the rationale for resilience in easy terms. - Dr. T V Gopal, Anna University, Chennai, INDIA

01:47:24 Andrew Chen - ICANN Org: The only language that has been added is as follows "While it is believed that no special provisions need to be made in this policy at this time for IDN variant transfers, please consult the IDN-EPDP for further information."

01:48:58 Hadia Elminiawi (ALAC - Member): +1 Thank you to Steinar for all his hard work

01:49:08 Jonathan Zuck: this has been quite a marathon

Eunice that does not seem to trigger anything for Topic 6 IDNs relating to the IRT Applicant Guidebook for new gTLDs Text... Rather an interest in an important issue

01:52:36 Heidi Ullrich - ICANN Org: If it is related to reaching out to universities regarding the next round, it might be useful to reach out to the LAC GSE team.

01:53:09 Roberto Gaetano: Incidentally, I agree that strict multilingualism is off topic here, I mentioned the call just because, even if off topic, it is an important issue.

01:53:20 Bill Jouris: Will want to read the Similarity Review document. Sorry I haven't gotten it done yet
