Charla Shambley:Hi Jorgen

Jørgen Abild Andersen:could we have the agenda on the screen+

Jørgen Abild Andersen:Many thanks

Fiona Asonga:finally

Fiona Asonga:I propose a slight change in the agenda

Fiona Asonga:Avri on whistle blower then reading assignments

Avri Doria:I think we need to be a little less afraid of what governments can do. they have been threatening for a long time.

Jørgen Abild Andersen:This is not in particular a question of being afraid of governments but showing respect for democracy which is the basis for governments having the responsibility for the interests of their constituents which are not only the stakeholders of the internet community

Larisa Gurnick:Staff will provide a redacted version of the documents

Jørgen Abild Andersen:point taken, thanks

Jørgen Abild Andersen:Well done Fiona - great chair!!

David Conrad:bye everyone

Avri Doria:I think of the multistakeholder function as democracy plus. it includes the governments, but it also include participation. stipulating of course to the fact that all governments are indeed democracies.

Avri Doria:the equality of all stakeholders is a key principle.

Jørgen Abild Andersen:But then have a look at the confidential mails.....

Avri Doria:i have only read confidential mail i have been privy to. i know about the threats. can't do wisis for 10 years and IGF for 8 without knowing that. nonetheless if multiustakeholder does not go forward as an eual stakeholder model, it doesn't work.

Avri Doria:bye all.

Charla Shambley:Thank you for participating in today's WS4 Call.
