

Nikki Hu - Statement of Interest—CCWG-Accountability

My name is Nikki Hu and I am in charge of international cooperation in Beijing Internet Institute, a non-profit research focus on internet infrastructure technology, specification and policy on IPv6, DNS and other issues in networking. I have attended ICANN meeting more than ten times, I am very interesting in IANA function and the stewardship transition process, and especially do a lot of research on internet governance. I actively participate the discussions on policy-making in ICANN and Chinese Community.

My personal interest in this WG (Enhancing CCWG-Accountability Implementation and WorkStream 2) as an individual participants is to engage and contribute in a useful manner in line with multi-stakeholder model. Note that I just represent myself by participating this WG. And my specific interest is to ensure that there are accountable measures for ICANN/IANA function operation to guarantee its transparency and diversity of participants from all regions of the world.

I am in no way affiliated in a material sense with any other parties affected by ICANN.

Now I am living in Beijing.
