

Icann's lack of accountability

You will never be accountable as long as your present governance structure is maintained. The number of directors that are appointed after being approached by your nominating committee should never exceed the number of directors that are elected by the public at large. In your anti-democratic organization, the elected member is but a tiny minority. No wonder so many of your policies are just self-interested crap. The sooner your organization is disbanded and given over to a democratically chosen entity, the better.
