Brenda Brewer: As a reminder, please mute your phone by depressing *6 and to unmute, *6 again.

Margie Milam: Good Morning!

Alice Jansen: Hi all - as a reminder - docs/slides that are discussed on today's call are available on your wiki at --> <https://community.icann.org/display/CCT/CCT+Meeting+%23+10+-+18+May+2016>

Megan Richards: that's a big step Laureen :-)

Waudu Siganga: HI all. Sorry Im jing late

Alice Jansen: @ Waudu - thanks for joining!

Alice Jansen: You now have scroll control

Brenda Brewer: Waudu and Gao, your mics are enabled now!

Gaongalelwe 2: hello and thanks Brenda

Waudu Siganga: problem connecting mic

Waudu Siganga: ok Ill type as others go on

Waudu Siganga: Qsn: so far it looks like its only the ASP Directory that is the metric for success of both the ASP and outreach program; how useful is this given that we may not know the "business quality" of those who have registered there

Brian Aitchison: Would be a great question for a survey!

Waudu Siganga: Qsn 2: Who was invited to the "live events"? I ask this because my experience with ICANN event in Africa is that business leaders are usually not invited and do not attend. It is usually the "usual ICANN" people who are often civil society and probably technical people, whereas its the business executives that should be targeted.

Waudu Siganga: What are the weaknesses that were noticed in the ASP and outreach programs that can be improved on?

Brenda Brewer: Please identify your name if your phone number listed end with 3146 or 4500. Thank you kindly!

David Taylor: 4500 is me calling in from a hotel in Miami Brenda

Brenda Brewer: Thank you David!

Waudu Siganga: Thanks for your answers Dennis

Carlos Raul: Watch for ZIKA in Miami David

Megan Richards: ZIKA is a new drink in Miami - only in Puerto Rico is it a disease : -)

David Taylor: Thank you Dennis, that was very helpful. Essentially end to end assistance is needed and early preparation.

Waudu Siganga: Carlos you will be accused of spoiling David's holiday

David Taylor: Not on holiday. : -)

Gaongalelwe 2: Thank you

Gaongalelwe 2: thank you for the presentation Dennis. this is very insightful. awareness of the ASP is key

Megan Richards: thanks and goodbye

Stanley Besen: Following up on Waudu's question, we should get information on the number of registrants in the gTLDs that Dennis discussed.

Carlos Raul: pour all the money into that database

Eleeza Agopian: Carlos: Please don't tweet just yet. We still need to fix that page. :)

Carlos Raul: (:

Carlos Raul: woops

Waudu Siganga: Thanks Stan

Waudu Siganga: Ok thanks

Alice Jansen: Link to draft report <https://newgtlds.icann.org/en/reviews/dns-abuse/draft-safeguards-against-dns-abuse-15mar16-en.pdf>

Brian Aitchison: indeed Lauren!

Alice Jansen: This is a follow-up to the discussion you had on plenary call #9

Megan Richards: there was a discussion about allowing brands to go forward without a separate "round" - perhaps that is the reference?

Eleeza Agopian: @Megan, I believe the team decided to leave the discussion around brands to the PDP WG.

Megan Richards: @Eleeza - that was the end result yes

Eleeza Agopian: Thanks. My memory is a bit fuzzy.

Waudu Siganga: that a good point; could explain why some applicants dropped out after signing the RA

Waudu Siganga: some of teh Nielsen qns will answer that

Drew Bagley: if it's a bad comment then give Brian credit

Brian Aitchison: haha

Carlos Raul: old

Drew Bagley: Great points Carlos - I think the added costs you and Dennis discussed are important to understand. That's why perhaps knowing whether or not there is demand in the first place that would justify the potential investments of new gTLD applicants in underserved countries.

Waudu Siganga: It would be a mixture of different groups: business, NGOs, etc

Brenda Brewer: Please identify your name if your phone number ends with 3146. Thank you!

Alice Jansen: Yes application & evaluation is on day 2

Eleeza Agopian: And you have one more plenary call before the DC meeting.

Alice Jansen: Slides are already available on wiki - see
