Introduction to At-Large

Who is the At-Large Community?

Volunteer Community, with over 200 organisations and individual members around the world that represents the interests of individual Internet users in ICANN activities

Who is the At-Large Community

We

- ○ are a volunteer community that represents the interests of individual Internet users in ICANN activities.

- ○ have close to 200 organisations around the world and a growing number of individual members.
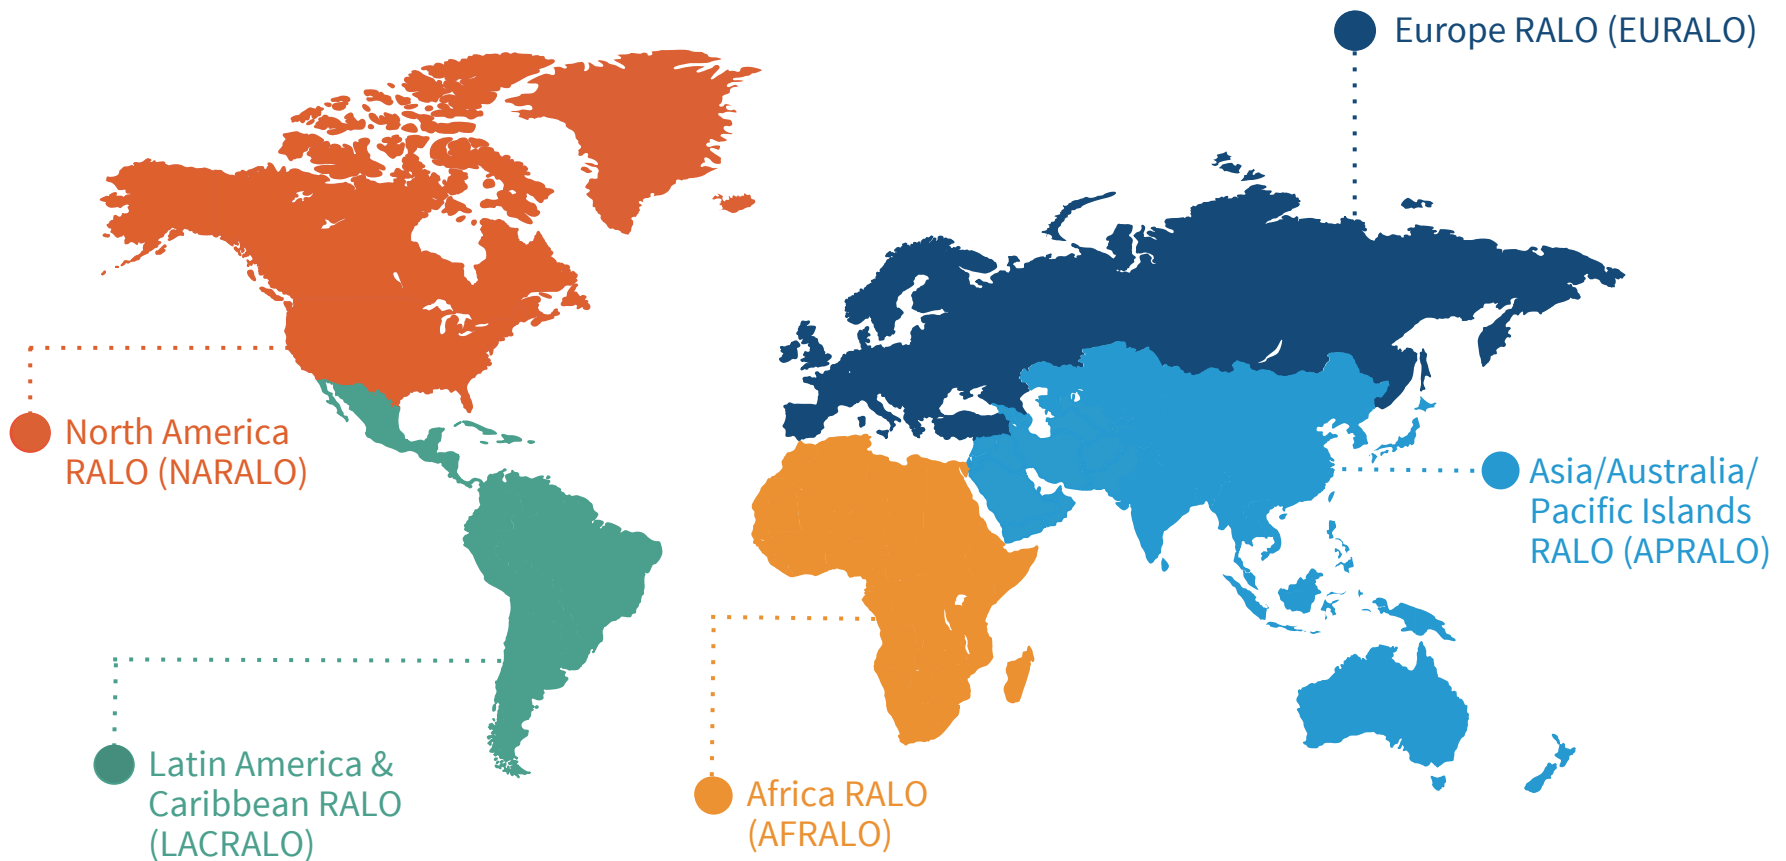

Who is the At-Large Community

Any group that supports individuals' ability to share their views on ICANN issues can be a part of the At-Large Community. These include

- Professional societies (e.g. engineers, attorneys, etc.)
- Academic and research organizations
- Community networking groups
- Consumer advocacy groups
- Internet Society chapters
- Computer user organizations
- Internet civil society groups

Groups that become accredited by ICANN are called At-Large Structures (ALSes)
Regional At-Large Organisations (RALOs)

ALSes and individual members are organized into five Regional At-Large Organisations (RALOs) based on their geographic regions

Europe RALO (EURALO)

North America RALO (NARALO)

Asia/Australia/ Pacific Islands RALO (APRALO)

Latin America & Caribbean RALO (LACRALO)

Africa RALO (AFRALO)

Key At-Large/ALAC Activities

Key At-Large/ALAC activities

The At-Large Community has the duty to understand, represent, and advocate for the interests of global Internet end users in ICANN activities.
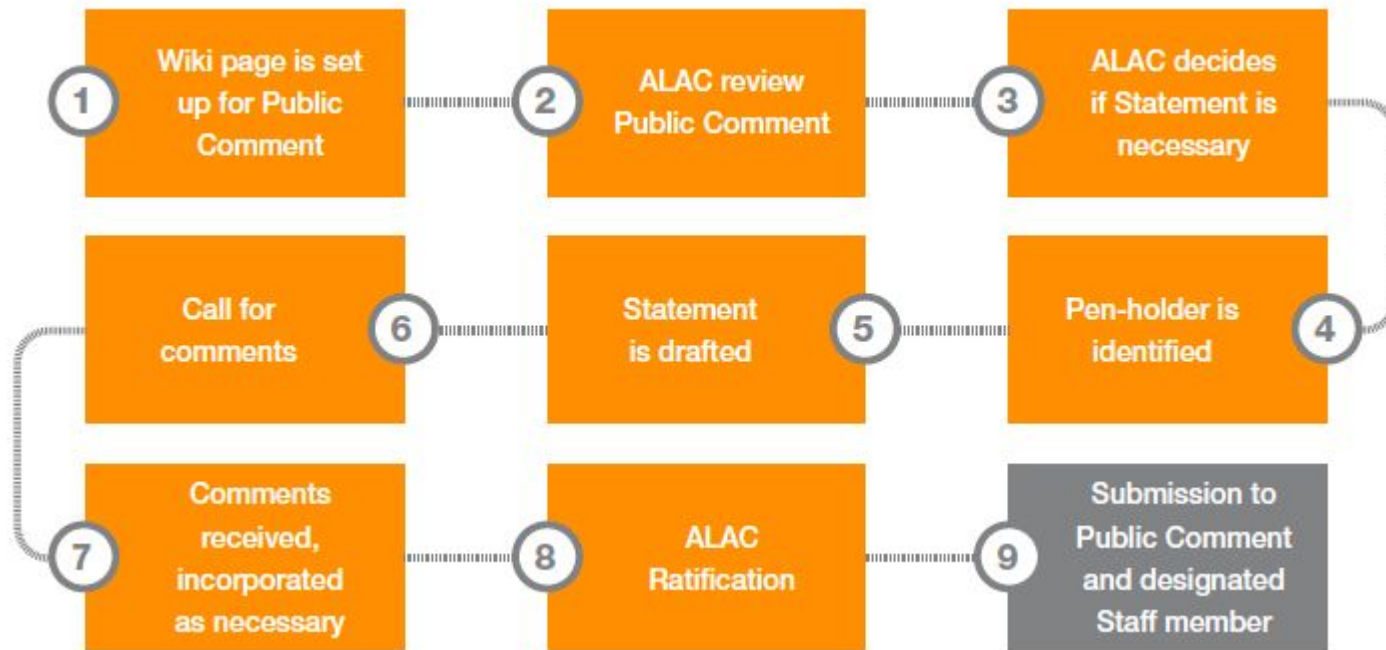

To fulfill this duty, we focus on two areas of work:

1) Policy Advice Development, and

2) Organisation Building.
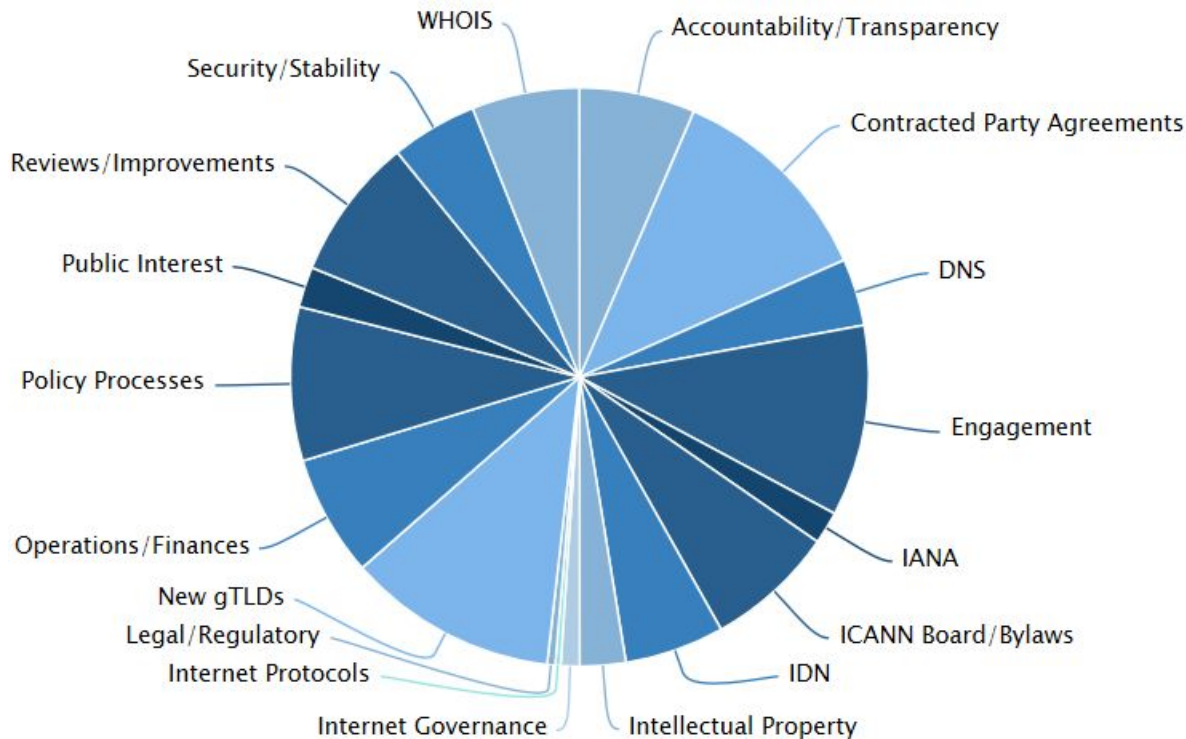

Policy Advice Development

Policy Advice Development - The At-Large Advisory Committee (ALAC) publicizes, analyzes, and advises on proposed ICANN policies and decisions that reflect the views and needs of individual users at regional and global levels.

At-Large Community members are empowered to draft position statements on behalf of the ALAC, comment on draft statements, and engage in policy-focused activities. See https://atlarge.icann.org/policy-summary

Policy Advice Development

Since 2003, The At-Large Advisory Committee (ALAC) has developed over 300 pieces of Advice on ICANN policies and issues impacting Internet users.

Organisation Building

As ICANN manages the coordination of Internet identifiers and its policy topics are quite technical and niche, At-Large plays an important role in making sure that individual Internet users keep in touch with ICANN's core mission, contribute to policy development, and provide sustainable flow of new blood into the multistakeholder model.

To achieve this goal, At-Large carries out activities, events, and meetings that focus on outreach and engagement, capacity building, and operational needs via Working Groups. At-Large membership is not required to participate.

How to engage with At-Large

How to engage with At-Large

- At-Large Event Calendar - Lists the online ALAC and RALO meetings and webinars that you can participate in over the Internet

- Find At-Large Community members in your country or region
