

Michelle DeSmyter:Dear all, Welcome to the New gTLD Subsequent Procedures Sub Team - Track 2 - call on Thursday, 20 October 2016 at 20:00 UTC.

Phil Buckingham:Hi Michelle , Steve , Im in !

Phil Buckingham:thanks . Should be an "interesting " next hour !

Jeff Neuman:Hello all

Jeff Neuman:vtLD (Validated top Level domains)

Gg Levine (NABP):NABP is participating

Gg Levine (NABP):Absolutely!

Jeff Neuman:.bank yes

Jeff Neuman:.pharmacy, .ngo / .ong

Jeff Neuman:.law

Gg Levine (NABP):TLD in which regigrants must meet registry standards prior to use of the domain

Alexander Schubert:.gay :-)

Jim Prendergast:Jeff has them allmemorized

Paul McGrady:On a flight now, so only able to contribute via chat today.

Alexander Schubert:Not yet delegated

Jim Prendergast:still in contention, isnt it?

Alexander Schubert:Still in contention

Steve Chan:CTAG

Alexander Schubert:CTAG!

Steve Chan:Community TLD Applicant Group

Paul McGrady:@Jeff Neuman - I have missed a call or two due to a family issue. DId we decide to include the Terms & Conditions from the Guidebook into this group or will they be looked at in another group? Thanks!

Jeff Neuman:We consider feedback from everyone

Jeff Neuman:@Paul - Yes.....but have not looked at them yet

Paul McGrady:Perfect! Thanks @Jeff.

Phil Buckingham:kurt - can you speak up a little

Kurt Pritz:pretty close

Kurt Pritz:I am in a crowded spot. sorry

Kevin Kreuser:justification is the right term, IMO, but I think it should be a high bar

Jeff Neuman:@kevin - Why a high bar?

Alexander Schubert:Do we talk Spec 5?

Phil Buckingham:alexander - spec 5 later

Alexander Schubert:So is this top level or second level?

Jeff Neuman:@Alexander - both

Alexander Schubert:Seemingly 2nd....

Alexander Schubert:BOTH?

Alexander Schubert:Apples & Oranges?

Jeff Neuman:We will need to consider both reserved names at the top level as well as those at the second level

Kevin Kreuser:bc the justification for most changes requested to the RA in this round were not due to something special in the applicant or the category that the applicant lived, but instead were based on the business' own limitations. TM rights and for protections I think are an exception. Multiple agreements for registrars can also be difficult to implement

Jeff Neuman:How are multiple registry agreements difficult for registrars? (I am not disagreeing, but want to flush this out)

Jeff Neuman:@Kevin - If one registry agreement has a different indemnity provision than another....how would that affect registrars

Jeff Neuman:(as an example)

Kevin Kreuser:depends on what changes are permitted by category. if technical, which I hope would not be the case, could cause difficulties

Kevin Kreuser:nevermind us, we're just chatting

Jeff Neuman:Not sure why that is.....I will call in.

Kurt Pritz:one part of the COI question might be whether the COI is still

Kurt Pritz:required

Kevin Kreuser:@Kurt, ICANN would welcome eliminating the COI itself, but is still going to want a way to fund EBERO

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):Finally into the AC Been on the audio bridge only until now

Kristina Rosette (Amazon Registry):Someone should take a look at the transcript of the new gTLD session in Toronto. Many participants raised complaints and concerns about the COI. ICANN's responses seem unlikely to be different now, IMHO.

Kurt Pritz:@Kevin. there are a lot of ways to skin that cat. For later substantive discussion

Kevin Kreuser:absolutely

Alexander Schubert:With reserved names we have to strictly distinguish between top and second level!

Alexander Schubert:CWG

Jeff Neuman:that was in 2006

Kristina Rosette (Amazon Registry):Are you talking about the 2006 WG?

Kevin Kreuser:@Kristina, ICANN is holding and managing LOIs and Data Escrow agreements for all of these TLDs. It's an administrative nightmare. I cannot imagine they wouldn't love to be rid of them, perhaps by way of insurance of some manner, taking a portion of the applicant fee and dumping into a pool, etc as an alternatives

Steve Chan:FYI, the document is un-synced...as Michael just noted.

Paul McGrady:Kevin, we went down the "insurance" path in Round 1 and it was rejected. Start ups are not the same risk footprint as .Brands.

Kristina Rosette (Amazon Registry):@Kevin: I think Paul McGrady has some views on ICANN as an insurer (although I was super sick in Dakar and could be misremembering).

Kevin Kreuser:Understand re insurance, point was more I believe they would be open to exploring better alternatives

Michael Flemming:Staff, could we make a note in the Notes to capture the discussion on COIs that is taking place in the chat so that we may use this as feedback and come back to this when we are ready to have more detailed discussion?

Michael Flemming:please*

Michael Flemming:A lot of constructive discussion. Thank you, everyone.

Michael Flemming:Thanks!

Jeff Neuman:We should also split the top level from second level

Alexander Schubert:+1

Annebeth Lange:+ 1

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):+1

Julie Hedlund:@Michael: I have copied it, but I'll note that it is redundant. The chat notes are captured separately by the Secretariat staff and is posted to the wiki.

Alexander Schubert:And it is split in the AG!

Paul McGrady:@Kevin, lots can be done with the EBERO issue to drive out costs and uncertainty, thus reducing ICANN's involvement/risk.

Alexander Schubert:Spec 5 is 2nd level, right?

Michael Flemming:Yes

Michael Flemming:Anything in the RA would refer to second level reservations

Michael Flemming:...I believe

Kevin Kreuser:some restrictions are at "all levels"

Kevin Kreuser:country and territory, for example

Jeff Neuman:I think we should take one by one

Jeff Neuman:See what the policy recommendation was and then compare with what was done

Steve Chan:Phil is discussing the existing Reserved Name

Requirements (at that time)

Annebeth Lange:And the Reserved Names report came in 2006 - not completely consistent with the AG

Steve Chan:What is in the AC room is the recommendation table recommended for new gTLDs

Michael Flemming:Yes, Phil is looking at the Roles of Reserved Names Table

Jeff Neuman:The applicant Guidebook in Section 2.2.1.2.1 has the initial list of top-level reserved names

Jeff Neuman:Then this section was added: 2.2.1.2.3 to cover red cross / olympics

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):Indeed Annebeth that out of Synch is important to note

Julie Hedlund:See the table at:

Kristina Rosette (Amazon Registry):May I suggest that we start with what was in the AG and only revert back to the Reserved Names WG recommendations and the 2000/2003 Reserved Name requirements, as needed?

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):works for me Kristina

Annebeth Lange:I agree

Annebeth Lange:It has been a lot of discussion between the result of the Reserved Names WG recommendations and the result in the AG

Kristina Rosette (Amazon Registry):+1 Jeff

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):+1

Kristina Rosette (Amazon Registry):Is there anyone who thinks that we shouldn't have reserved names on the top level?

Annebeth Lange:The AG should be the starting point here

Kevin Kreuser:home

Alexander Schubert:hiome?

Alexander Schubert:Yap: home

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):4

Julie Hedlund:All: Just a time check. 2 minutes to the top of the hour.

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):WT4

Heather Forrest:It seems to me that it would be helpful to have everyone in the group go back to the RNWG Report to understand the justifications reached by that group

Jeff Neuman:@heather - yes please

Annebeth Lange:And we have to remember that this was long time ago - before the AG that I think had input from more stakeholdergroups than RNWG

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):Have to leave my next call is starting now

Cheryl Langdon-Orr (CLO):Bye

Paul McGrady:Thanks all!

Annebeth Lange:Bye

Alexander Schubert:Thanks!

Jeff Neuman:@Annabeth - Agree, BUT we need to revise the policy so we need to understand the original policy

Annebeth Lange:Absolutely, Jeff

Heather Forrest:thanks everyone

Robin Gross:thanks all, bye

Alexander Schubert:Midnight :-)

Robert Burlingame:Thank you. Bye.

Annebeth Lange:Here too, Alexander

Emily Barabas:Next call will be after ICANN57, invitation to be sent out
