Maxim Alzoba (FAITID):catch 22?

Lisa Phifer:Note that the second question under Users/Purposes is: For what specific purposes should gTLD registration data be collected, maintained, and made accessible?

Greg Shatan:Will we answer each question under Users/Purposes before moving on to Data Elements?

Stephanie Perrin:test

Marika Konings:@Stephanie - test received

Lisa Phifer:@Greg, Chuck proposes that we address one question under each of the three questions in round-robin fashion, but if the WG decides it needs to address a different question before moving on to another charter question, we'll be flexible on doing that Michael Palage:General Question Chuck to Follow-Up on Stephanie question (sorry no audio connection) - So when we talk about access. Historically we have engaged in this debate in connection with what ICANN mandates must be disclosed. What happens if a Registry wants o disclose MORE data. Does this group view it within their mandate to prevent a Registry Operator from including more data in the Whois/RDS output?

Michele Neylon:Palage - I don't see it as an issue

Michael Palage:I do not as well, but would appreciate the views of others

Michele Neylon:If you want to publish more data then that's fine, but maybe that's more of a technical / operational thing?

Stephanie Perrin:Yes, if you are insisting on more data than required you may be breaching DP law.

Michael Palage:Good example Michele

Lisa Phifer>Note that this could be deliberated under Data Elements key concepts - and will be dependent to some extent on Privacy key concepts. However, it falls under topics to be deliberated on by the WG

Vaibhav Aggarwal:+1 Steph

Maxim Alzoba (FAITID):It depends on the registry policy - if the registry has to collect ID numbers for local citizens , it does not mean that the registry is going to upload it

Kal Feher:I think the questions is really, "will this policy be a minimum or a maximum of fields/tiered access?"

Michael Palage:Maxim I agree registries and registrars can collect additional data points such as buisness license, but what it a registry wants to upload this data to increase trust for consumers using that TLD websites?

Susan Kawaguchi:But If a registrant agrees to the addition of a new field and provide that information is there a reason to not allow it?

Maxim Alzoba (FAITID):@Michael, it might need further research

Kal Feher:regardless of what goes into those fields. will we enumerate all possible fields and no more are allowed? or will we allow Registries to have more fields?

Michael Palage:Sorry for the diversion

Vaibhav Aggarwal:Again Gated Access is what is being said

Vaibhav Aggarwal:in the Example

Vaibhav Aggarwal:but its regulated Share

Kal Feher:common additional fields could be nexus data or trademark data. and of course additional fields may not be available for anonymous or unverified access

Michele Neylon:In the RIPE DB a lot of us were putting abuse contacts into the "notes" field until they introduced an "abuse c"

Benny Samuelson / Nordreg AB:Still if the info being collected are a part of the agreement the registrant accept, I really cant see the big problem

Vicky Sheckler:+1 w/ Greg

Daniel K. Nanghaka:I agree with you Greg

Greg Shatan:FYI, thousand layer pancake is a favorite Burmese dish of mine, and there are no longer any Burmese restaurants in NYC.... :-(

Greg Shatan:I thought I was a shrinking violet....

Michele Neylon:there's more than 1 of me?

Michele Neylon:damn

Michele Neylon:that explains my hotel reservation issues

Holly Raiche:@ Michele- there could only be one of you

Michele Neylon:@Holly - SPG would disagree

Michele Neylon:they *think* I was in the US on Saturday night

Holly Raiche:And Greg - srinking violet really didn't come to mind - possibly my mistake

Michele Neylon:stinking or shrinking?

Holly Raiche:sorry - shrinking please

Michele Neylon:awww

Greg Shatan:Shrieking might be more apropos.

Fabricio Vayra:Looks great, Chuck!

Holly Raiche:@ Greg - your words, not mine

Greg Shatan:Michele, according to LinkedIn, you are a Deposit Services Manager at CrossFirst Bank in Overland Park, Kansas, and a Deli Manager at Cabela's in Roselle, Illinois, where your job is "Make fudge in General Store and work with customers and ring on register"

Greg Shatan:Holly, at least your name is seasonally appropriate....

Greg Shatan:Apologies for the diversion.

Lisa Phifer:To be clear: Barring any further adjustments, we'll start deliberation on our next call with the first question under Users/Purposes - see Page 1.

Holly Raiche:@ Greg - it matches a birthday time

Holly Raiche:And also sorry for a diversion
Vicky Sheckler:thank you leadership team for the end of year break.
Holly Raiche:Happy with this approach and timing
Daniel K. Nanghaka:The end of year break is necessary
Greg Shatan:When he's not making fudge in the General Store....
Holly Raiche:Love he thought
Lisa Phifer:All, please feel free to ask clarifying questions on the WG list this week, after you've had a chance to read through this document. Thanks.
Greg Shatan:Thank you, Chuck.
Nathalie Coupet:Bye All
Chris Pelling:Thanks :)
Sara Bockey:thanks all
Vlad Dinculescu:Thanks All
Chris Pelling:bye
Maxim Alzoba (FAITID):bye all
Greg Shatan:Bye all.
Daniel K. Nanghaka:thank you bye all
Vaibhav Aggarwal:Thanks Everyone and a Special Tahnx to Chuck
Vaibhav Aggarwal:ciao
