Ching Chiao:Good evening Asha. Good to have you :)

elliott noss:I liked manal's changes, particularly wrt our need for clarity on the mission (objective of fund)

elliott noss:hi asha

Asha Hemrajani:你好 Ching

Asha Hemrajani:Hi Elliot

Manal Ismail:I'm sorry Marika no I didn't see yit ..

Stephanie Perrin:My apologies for being late.

Vanda Scartezini:makes sense Erika

Erika Mann:Have I lost you?

Manal Ismail:I hope my point is clear and am sure Marika will do a great job :) .. don't want to waste time in word smithing .. happy to take it over email ..

Vanda Scartezini:looks clear for me

Maureen Hilyard:The additional text will help to clarify our process

Ahmed Bakht:+1 to Manal

hadia Elminiawi:+1 Erika , postpone the answer to the question

Vanda Scartezini:+ 1 erika, it is too open now for find a commum solution

Ahmed Bakht:+1

hadia Elminiawi:to early to answer the question now

Stephanie Perrin:Agree to defer

Nadira AL-Araj:It would be better to have a wider perspective on the different models available

Maureen Hilyard:+1 Erika until we get further clarity

Stephanie Perrin:We can certainly generate a parking lot of questions as they come up

Julf Helsingius:agree

hadia Elminiawi:+1 stephanie

Vanda Scartezini:+1 Staphanie - parking lot is a good idea and make it easy to find Marika Konings:This is from the response to the Board: Concerning the suggested nominal goal for the overhead is no more than 5% by the ICANN Board, the CCWG will definitely consider this input when it considers the relevant charter questions as well as the elements the Board has suggested the proposed mechanism and/or process should include. Several CCWG members/participants did point out, however, that the overhead costs will depend on the actual mechanism recommended as a result of the CCWG deliberations and may therefore vary from the 5% recommended by the ICANN Board.

Nadira AL-Araj:A these points are good to prepare a framework to how to deal with the beneficiaries

Ahmed Bakht:Comments from both sides are strong, however, my vote is for giving preference to developing economies because they already have certain constraints

John Levine:It's OK to make it a consideration, very bad idea to reserve a fixed percentage

Ching Chiao:agree with Alan hadia Elminiawi:+1 Alan to not restrict the use of the funds to any innovative possibilities

Manal Ismail:Agree to keeping all doors open at this very early stage

Vanda Scartezini:agree with Alan + also underserved groups inside developed regions

Mary Uduma:+1 @Alan and Manal

Manal Ismail:+1 Elliot

Ahmed Bakht:Seems some sound issue

Asha Hemrajani:I would like to understand what everyone thinks about "giving priority/preference" to any one particular sector

Nadira AL-Araj:One of the scenarios might come as recommendation from this group is to give the framework to an independent financial well established organization to deal with this fund according to the recommendations. So it is better to keep everything is open as both Alan and Erika has mentioned.

elliott noss:remember I am only limiting the comments to i) beneficiaries >> organizations and ii) those in need

elliott noss:I see nothing limiting there

Becky Burr:maybe we should think about this in a different way. The use of the funds has to be within ICANN's Mission, in addition, our Core Commitments require ICANN Seeking and supporting broad, informed participation reflecting the functional, geographic, and cultural diversity of the Internet at all levels of policy development and decision-making to ensure that the bottom up, multi stakeholder policy development process is used to ascertain the global public interest and that those processes are accountable and transparent;

Stephanie Perrin:I think that when we get down to the nitty gritty of evaluating the proposals, points would be given for local projects, in underdeveloped regions (covers all options there) and projects executed by locals.

Stephanie Perrin:However I agree with Elliot that we need to bake that notion into the purpose

Asha Hemrajani:So Elliott & Alan as a follow on from your comments, would you not support "giving priority or preference to any one particular group. Is my understanding correct?

elliott noss:@asha I would give preference to those in need. this is NOT limiting. it is descriptive elliott noss:does anyone think differently?

Ching Chiao:yup i agree with the need-based approach elliott noss:I am comfortable not leaving this open to someone doing cool research in the DNS in silicon valley which could be not for profit (as an example)

Asha Hemrajani:@Elliott ok now I see what you mean. "those in need" is very broad and giving preference to "those in need" does not restrict.

Asha Hemrajani:Thanks Alan, that is exactly what I wanted to clarify (from your perspective).

Nadira AL-Araj:+1 Alan, those what we have to focus on the time being to define the general purpose of this fund

Asha Hemrajani:Thanks Alan, you got my question.

Maureen Hilyard:I agree Erika to delay this decision I think that it is important that clear criteria and guidelines are required but these have yet to be established

Erika Mann:Hadia!

hadia Elminiawi:i am talking

Becky Burr:most effectively and consistent with ICANN's Mission, Commitments, and Core Values, including seeking and supporting broad, informed participation reflecting the functional, geographic, and cultural diversity of the Internet

Vanda Scartezini:totally agree with Alan... good projects shall have opportunity - so no limitation by now

hadia Elminiawi:ok

Manal Ismail:can't hear u hadia ..

Marika Konings:@Hadia - your mic doesn't appear active.

hadia Elminiawi:Ok ill type my chat

Erika Mann:We can't hear you!!!

Marika Konings:Make sure it is connected (click on the phone symbol at the top). Alternatively we can also dial-out to you.

elliott noss:no

elliott noss:you misdescribed what I said erica hadia Elminiawi:apparently I have a problem with my mic

Stephanie Perrin:+1 must be for those in need, not simply cool ideas

Julf Helsingius:"need" is just tricky to define

Julie Bisland:Hadia, i've sent you a private chat if you'd like the operator to dial out to you.

Nadira AL-Araj:@Elliott, Sometime, those in need might not lead to development

Becky Burr:I agree that we shouldn't fund projects that the applicant already has the means to accomplish, but I don't exactly know what "in need" means in all contexts

elliott noss:@nadira agree. as I know you know better than me, development is hard Nadira AL-Araj:@Elliott then it is better to put a framework that lead to some developments to those in need.

elliott noss:that was NOT what I said elliott noss:@nadira I love that idea. I look forward to hearing specifics there Stephanie Perrin:I agree that in "need" can be tricky, and we do not want to preclude the development of tools somewhere, to help those in "need". This is why baking th concept of underserved (need to find better words) is important. This is not a research fund, in other words, for economies where research funds are available.

Manal Ismail:I think it should go to cool/creative/innovative ideas (whatever we want to call them) which need the funding irrespective of where they come from ..

Vanda Scartezini:good point ALAN, new development , innovation may also be considered hadia Elminiawi:And what if you have two beneficiaries in need one from an underepresented community and one from a well represented community and you can allocate the money to only one, Which one of the beneficiaries will you choose?

Jonathan Robinson:What about something core to SSR such as Root Servers? Would that qualify? Strikes me that we need to keep an opening for core SSR issues in either an R&D or operational context Nadira AL-Araj:as you've worte @elliott is not easy, but make sure to make the recievers have sustianble programs in thier proposals.

elliott noss:again, I did not say anything about undeveloped regions

Stephanie Perrin:I think we can see that this is going to be a highly controversial topic, whenever we get to it.

Julf Helsingius:stephanie +1

Asha Hemrajani:@elliott yes I know you didn't say undeveloped regions, I was referring to the text on the top line of this page

Asha Hemrajani:"Should any priority or preference be given to organizations from developing economies, projects implemented in such regions and/or under-represented groups?"

hadia Elminiawi:+1 core infrastructure projects

Vanda Scartezini:guess we all agree the answer to this question is NO -

Julf Helsingius:"parts of ICANN" is equally controversial

Nadira AL-Araj:+1 Stephanie and that is why it is important to give it priority to discuss this issue

Julf Helsingius:The more creative something is, the more likely it is to fail elliott noss:parts of ICANN is MUCH more controversial

Asha Hemrajani:@elliott, we could consider adding something along the lines of "not funding projects that would normally be funded out of the ICANN budget"

Asha Hemrajani:+1 Alan regarding operational funding

Ching Chiao:If looking at the new gTLD process itself , we were talking about giving priority to certain "categories" of applicants. Eventually the prioirty (of delegation) was given to IDN applicants. Not necessarily related to the question here but a decision made before

Alan Greenberg:I do support using some of the funds to build up the ICANN reserve (which implicitly frees up operational funding) but if we figure out how to di this (as suggested by the Board), it will be through a different mechanism.

elliott noss:if it is a problem, I am ok not to elliott noss:I don't want to push more

Marika Konings:We would first need to make clear what the proposals are?

John Levine:There are way too many worms in the can that reserve funding would open

hadia Elminiawi:+1 Marika

Ching Chiao:Erika -- could you repeat it again ?

Jonathan Robinson:I am not 100% clear what the question is?

Manal Ismail:same here ..

Alan Greenberg:Not sure what question is in this case.

Stephanie Perrin:Let's take the time to do a survey monkey, this is a threshold question in my view

elliott noss:sure

Stephanie Perrin:Exactly, it is good to understand the range of viewpoints as we go forward

Asha Hemrajani:agree with Alan's point

elliott noss:agree. we should call it program expenses

Vanda Scartezini:yes there is two different question here

Erika Mann:It's Xavier who is speaking

hadia Elminiawi:I can't hear you anymore

Erika Mann:You can't hear me?

Ching Chiao:Erika we can hear you

Erika Mann:Xavier?

Nadira AL-Araj:Will be waiting for the clarification of what "overhead" in this question means. Thanks
