Geoff H: (10: 54) <COMMENT>How is the expansion of the name space with more GLTDs contributing to the security and stability of the Internet? Who reached that conclusion? On what basis?</COMMENT>

Geoff H: (10: 55) <COMMENT> Considering that the majority of register domain names are never actually instantiated in the DNS, and fall under the general category of speculative registrations, what metric is being used to ensure a "healthy" DNS market place? How do speculative name registrations contribute to security and stability? </COMMENT>

Yvette Guigneaux: (10: 56) comment noted Geoff

Yvette Guigneaux: (10: 56) will be relayed shortly

Yvette Guigneaux: (10: 58) Geoff - Akram is responding to your first comment now

Geoff H: (10: 59) I understand that this is community supported, but where is or was the security aspects considered?

Yvette Guigneaux: (10: 59) Akram is responding to our second comment now - and i will relay your third comment momentarily

James Gannon: (11: 00) Geoff are you speaking about in the policy development or in the implementation by ICANN?

Geoff H: (11: 01) Implementation is on my mind

James Gannon: (11: 01) ok good yeh agreed then

Geoff H: (11: 02) I understand the community said "go in this direction!" but I am unsure who was thinking about how to do it SAFELY and CAREFULLY

Yvette Guigneaux: (11: 02) Cathy is responding to your follow up comment now Geoff

Geoff H: (11: 02) thanks!

Yvette Guigneaux: (11: 03) And so is James responding to your comments as well

Cathy: (11: 03) hope that what correct

James Gannon: (11: 03) Same hope that was supporting your point!

Geoff H: (11: 04) thanks James - that was helpful of you!

Cathy: (11: 05) Is his answer getting close to your question?

Geoff H: (11: 05) they are saying that they are reactive

Cathy: (11: 05) you are looking for something more proactive?

Geoff H: (11: 06) which is fine, but I was probing the extent to which they thought in advance and tried to be proactive in their approach to ensure that the DNS was stable throughout

Geoff H: (11: 08) I am happy with this response as it stands (in so far as my questions were answered) even if I find the content a little worrisome!

Geoff H: (11: 08) i.e the answer itself was not as reassuring (to me) as I might have wanted!

Yvette Guigneaux: (11: 10) sound still good for everyone?

Geoff H: (11: 10) sound is good for me

Mr. Matogoro: (11: 10) Going lower, may be they are speaking far away from their MIC or low voice

James Gannon: (11: 12) Just to get it on the record we can use SLAM and EBERO as examples where there are deficiencies in implementation

Geoff H: (11: 12) Thanks Francisco!

James Gannon: (11: 19) James Gannon: James Gannon: Just to get it on the record we can use SLAM and EBERO as examples where there are deficiencies in implementation. Can staff take that as a followup point

Jennifer Bryce: (11: 21) noted thanks

Yvette Guigneaux: (11: 22) thanks Jennifer - and James we are coordinating a follow up point for you as requested

James Gannon: (11: 27) THanks Ill clarify, Can GDD comment on the failures of both SLAM and EBERO where they apply to RSP failure scenarios, also implemenation of EBERO testing took 3 years from implemenation of the first nGTLd delegation, no security review of the EBEROs has every took place, what is the justifucation for that? I would also like to ask for Francisco to brief us on both systems from an SSR2 perspective (Rather than the SSR1 implemantion perspective)

Yvette Guigneaux: (11: 34) noted James and on the record

James Gannon: (11: 34) thanks =)

Yvette Guigneaux: (11: 35) you're welcome - and i am working on my acronyms! =)

Yvette Guigneaux: (12: 07) Please note - lunch break in 5-10 min

Yvette Guigneaux: (12: 08) noted James - has this been read into the official record yet?

James Gannon: (12: 09) Ok is the chat not recorded?

Yvette Guigneaux: (12: 10) it goes on the wiki word for word as a transcript

Mr. Matogoro: (12: 11) <Question> What were the main creterial/factor that were used to select a specific certification standards especially those presented on this recommendation </Question>
