1	See my email on the list from Thu, Sep 28, 2017 at 3:22 PM PST with subject containing "Original Registration Date"	9/29/2017 4:28 PM
2	That element was considered as key to URS/UDRP downstream activities. These were considered legitimate purposes for WHOIS access and use seeing the data was complementary to chaining ownership changes.	9/29/2017 10:01 AM
3	Although I did not raise an objection on the call, in further considering, I believe there should be a requirement for the Original Registration Date, as proposed by the EWG Final Report. This information is important for a number of legitimate purposes, such as determining bad faith in an IP investigation (whether a domain was registered before trademark rights existed, for instance).	9/29/2017 9:39 AM
4	Agree. Original Registration Date should be dropped.	9/28/2017 7:39 AM
5	Reading the EWG Final Report, I failed to find the words that Original Registration Date must be implemented.	9/27/2017 7:40 AM
6	Marginal Agree since, on occasion, I find the ORD useful...esp for identifying scams	9/26/2017 6:27 PM
7	The way the question is stated does not match the phrasing in the EWG final Report. In the report it is indicated as optional. Although optional, it is commonly used and the EWG Final Report lists (valid) purposes and uses for the original creation date.	9/26/2017 5:04 PM
