Donna Austin, Neustar:what's another couple of minutes on top of three years?

James Bladel:Staff notes that Thomas is dialing in to the bridge.

Oswaldo Novoa:Hello all

avri doria:here we are again, nothing to be done about it.

James Bladel:was that Michelle? Can't hear.

James Bladel:?

Mary Wong:Is that better?

Mary Wong>Please mute if you're not speaking, thank you!

Thomas Rickert, Chair:Hi all, sorry I had technical difficulties getting in.

Thomas Rickert, Chair:The motion that was adopted by the GNSO Council way back when was and I guess still is the longest motion in our history.

avri doria:so, were we to just accept what they want we would be done? anyone?

Mary Wong:We can upload the text of Recommendation 5 as well as the Red Cross Minority Statement about these National Society names, if that will be helpful.

avri doria:i am not necessarily suggesting it, just defining one possible outcome.

Oswaldo Novoa:I would support this, I was opposed to the protection of the acronyms, not the full names.

James Bladel:I think we may have covered most of Agenda #4.

avri doria:is it correct to also assume this group gates the end of the Subsequent Procedures PDP?

avri doria:i would assume it is like asking to have an exam regraded, one can lose what they had - especially any interim decisions made by the board (were there any?)

Mary Wong:@Avri, the Red Cross names and acronyms are currently reserved as an interim measure - so once the Board acts on the GNSO recommendations (whether to approve or otherwise) the interim protections will go away, and the final Board approval will govern.

avri doria:So, Mary, we could bring a decision different from the Board's interim decision and remove those names from the reservation list.

avri doria:agan, not recommending, just looking for the boundary conditions.

avri doria:does our procedure require a round of "constituency/sg/SOAC comments" on the issues?

Mary Wong:Note that following the WG's consultation, the proposal still has to be published for public comment before the Council takes a final vote.

Mary Wong:@Avri, not expressly - but doesn't mean the WG or the Council can't call for these.

James Bladel::)

Mary Wong:We note that the Red Cross' Minority Statement (now on screen) mentions protection under international and domestic laws, and specifically highlights the adjectives in a National Society name.

avri doria:how often we meeting?

Osvaldo Novoa:Ok

Stéphane Hankins:Is there any intention for this to be in any way discussed in Johannesburg?

James Bladel:Correct.

James Bladel::)

Donna Austin, Neustar:Thank you to everyone for making yourselves available.

avri doria:bye

Osvaldo Novoa:Thank you and see you in Johannesburg

James Bladel:Thanks, Thomas & Staff. And thanks everyone for coming back in to service after such a long break!
