Q2 Domain Name Management: Those on the 5 December WG call expressed support for the following statement; no objections were raised on the call: Domain Name Management is a legitimate purpose for collecting some registration data. Initial agreement during the call was based on the following definition of Domain Name Management produced by the drafting team: Information collected to create a new domain name registration and ensuring that the domain registration records are under the control of the authorized party and that no unauthorized changes, transfers are made in the record. Later in the call, an extended definition of Domain Name Management was also proposed: Information collected to create a new domain name registration, enabling management of the domain name registration, and ensuring that the domain registration records are under the control of the authorized party and that no unauthorized changes, transfers are made in the record. In considering these, you may also find it useful to refer to the EWG Report definition which the drafting team started from: Creating, managing and monitoring a Registrant's own domain name (DN), including creating the DN, updating information about the DN, transferring the DN, renewing the DN, deleting the DN, maintaining a DN portfolio, and detecting fraudulent use of the Registrant's own contact information. Please indicate below which statement below best reflects your level of agreement with Domain Name Management as a legitimate purpose for collecting some registration data. Note: If the purpose is agreed to be legitimate, we will then deliberate on the specific data needed for that purpose.

ANSWER CHOICES	RESPONSES
Domain Name Management is a legitimate purpose for collecting some registration data, based on the drafting team's definition: Information collected to create a new domain name registration and ensuring that the domain registration records are under the control of the authorized party and that no unauthorized changes, transfers are made in the record.	20.83% 5
Domain Name Management is a legitimate purpose for collecting some registration data, based on the extended definition: Information collected to create a new domain name registration, enabling management of the domain name registration, and ensuring that the domain registration records are under the control of the authorized party and that no unauthorized changes, transfers are made in the record.	70.83% 17
Domain Name Management is a legitimate purpose for collecting some registration data, but I wish to propose my own definition of this purpose in the comment box below.	8.33% 2
Domain Name Management is not a legitimate purpose for collecting any registration data.	0.00% 0

#	PLEASE PROVIDE YOUR RATIONALE FOR DISAGREEING WITH THIS PURPOSE OR A PROPOSED ALTERNATIVE DEFINITION	DATE
1	Creating, managing and monitoring a Registrant's own domain name (DN), for the beneficial interest of that registrant, including creating the DN, updating information about the DN, transferring the DN, renewing the DN, deleting the DN, maintaining a DN portfolio, and detecting fraudulent use of the Registrant's own contact information.	12/9/2017 9:05 AM Perrin
2	Purely editorial -- toward the end "unauthorized changes, transfers" should be "unauthorized changes or transfers."	12/8/2017 12:52 PM Shatan
3	The drafting team's definition is fatally flawed -- it does not allow for any changes after the domain is created, and does not allow management of the domain during its lifetime. If you can't manage the domain during its lifetime, you can't update contacts, transfer the domain, add or change nameservers, renew the domain, etc. The drafting team should consider incorporating language from the EWG Report definition.	12/6/2017 9:13 AM Aaron
