Rebecca L Tushnet: Is there anyone on audio only maybe?

Rebecca L Tushnet: My two devices disagree on what time it is.

Rebecca L Tushnet:Hunh. I updated the time and now they agree and I understand I'm early!

Lori Schulman: I am on! Happy New Year!
 Mary Wong: We can reverse the agenda items 2 & 3 if need be Lori Schulman: Michael will be late. It's 8 pm here in Europe

 Kathy:Just in, who is speaking?
 Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: Julie
  Lori Schulman: I thought that we were going to fix the screen view
  Lori Schulman: I only see 1/2 the screen.
 Kathy:Tx!
  J. Scott Evans: Why don't we start with document management since MG is late?
  Kathy:Lori, you might want to download the doc
 Kathy: "Save as"
  Lori Schulman:OK
  Lori Schulman: thanks
 Kurt Pritz: I am good with either way
 Mary Wong: @Kristine, Ariel can answer this.
  Lori Schulman: I still owe you the NGO questions.
 Mary Wong: @Kathy, do you mind if Ariel goes next? She can explain the cross outs and comments.
  Kathy:I would like to mention something Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: And Kurt, to clarify, the problem is that your additions were "overwritten"
not just commented on, right?
 Mary Wong:OK Kathy
 Kathy:Tx
  Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: Thanks Kurt, that helps.
  Rebecca L Tushnet: I was the initial drafter with the next set,
Kathy
 Michelle DeSmyter: Welcome Michael!
 Michael R. Graham: Apologies to all - I have just joined the call and online.
  Rebecca L Tushnet:Kurt's crash ended up also getting rid of my set, because of the flaw with Google Docs and not anything he did wrong

Mary Wong: I believe Kurt did Section 4 and Rebecca Section 5

Kathy:Glad you are here, Michael

Mary Wong: Ariel is now explaining how the original text was replaced after Kurt's crash. No edits were made by staff to the original text for both sections.

Michael R. Graham:@Lori -- +1 to 6 hour cutoff

Lori Schulman:It's the same 6 hours no matter how the time shifts.

Mary Wong:To Lori's point, note that staff does not edit this document except that after each call, we update the document with what was agreed (unless the lead for that section chooses to update it himself or herself, as Kristine and Michael did for their sections).

Lori Schulman: Michael is in LA, I am in Europe, its evening for me, still morning for him.

Lori Schulman: I don't think we have an Asia dwellers on these calls. Let's be realistic.

Kathy:Tx!

Philip Corwin: Agree that a 6 hour cutoff, and distribution of that version at least 2-3 hours prior to call, would be desirable Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: In the interest of actually enjoying al ittle micromangement, would staff we willing to send a warning that the doc will close 24 hours ahead of the meeting (18 hours before the doc is locked)? Anyone think we can self-mange this or are you all running flat out at all times like me?

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services:sorry for the typos...obtaining more coffee...

Lori Schulman: Agree with Kurt. Changes can be entered as comments not redlines.

Michael R. Graham:@Kurt and Kristine +1

Mary Wong: So perhaps it will be best if the group agrees to use ONE form of editing (e.g. just as Comments, not cross outs).

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: Yes, I propose that we not allow insertions and striketouts in the text.

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services:Is that an option Kathy:+1 Michael

Mary Wong:@Kristine, the group can agree to a specific method though we will have no way of enforcing it Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services:@Michael: (i.e.

Word's "view original")?

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services:OK, thanks, Mary, that's what I was wondering.

Ariel Liang:No problem

Mary Wong:@Michael, there is a function where you can view the edits that were made since you last viewed the document

Ariel Liang:@Kristine - to answer your question re 'not allow insertions and striketouts', if one has 'comment' right in the google doc, he/she will have the ability to do insertions and striketouts automatically

Mary Wong: And one reason why staff PDFs the document before each call (besides for display in AC) is to have a record of each week's version in PDF. This is also why we have requested that the group agree on a no-edit policy after a certain time (which sounds like 6 hours before the call).

Lori Schulman: Maybe say spelling and grammar changes are ok in redline. Substantive changes are not.

Kurt Pritz:SO, Three things: (1) Comments only, no line outs or edits before first discuss of the questions; (2) No comments after six hour mark; (3) Edits allowed (up to six hour mark) after discussion of questions

Lori Schulman: How about a compromise at 12?

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services:+1 Kurt

Michael R. Graham:@Lori -- minor changes redline is fine -- +1

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: Fine with 12 hours...

Mary Wong:@Kurt, to your (3) - do you also want to limit edits of questions ALREADY discussed to the lead and staff (with questions yet to be discussed reverting to Step 1)?

Michael R. Graham: Agree on 12 hours closing.

Kathy:12 hours OK

Mary Wong: Exactly, Kurt

Lori Schulman: Agree with Krisitine.

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services:thanks Julie!

Mary Wong:Last two questions for TM

Ariel Liang:we are at the bottom of Page 18

Mary Wong: Page 18

Ariel Liang:on google doc

Mary Wong:On this PDF it is bottom of Page 24

Kathy: That makes sense, Kristine, tx

- J. Scott Evans: Sounds sensible to me.
- J. Scott Evans:+1 Kristine

Mary Wong: For this point, the source suggested by the sub team was "Survey brand owners and/or registrants regarding cease and desist letters sent/received" and as Kristine noted, the language in this currnt document is what was presented to and approved by the Council.

Mary Wong: Follow up to my last point, the sub team that suggesed the source was the Claims Sub Team

Mary Wong:Trademark Claims Notice = sent to potential registrants. Notice of Registered Name (NORN) = sent to TM holders.

Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: the sub team did differentiate between both notice types...we should perhaps verify that those questions were not accidentally omitted from this chart....

Mary Wong:@Kristine, staff can make that clarification where needed. I think Column 1 & 2 are accurate since they are taken from the previous sub teams' work, but we did not touch Columns 3 or 4 since those are still under discussion by this Sub Team.

- J. Scott Evans: Why are we asking TM owners if the notice to applicant's is confusing?
  - J. Scott Evans:or understandable?

Kathy:I had the same question :-)

Mary Wong: There is a terminology that is defined

Kathy:Shouldn't we asking about the Notice of Registered Name ? Understandable to/for TM Owners?

Mary Wong:Again, Claims Notice is what is sent to potential registrants; NORN (Notice of Registered Name) to TM owners. This is the terminology used in all ICANN documentation about the Trademark Claims Service.

Kathy:+1 Lori!!

Kathy: And what was the domain name?

Lori Schulman:Love the idea of a drop down

Kathy: If we ask the questions generally, they can give us as much or little data as they have on hand

Lori Schulman: Great point Kristine

Mary Wong:So the Google Doc cut off will be 1000 UTC on Thursday

Lori Schulman:that's 11 pm for me. send coffee

J. Scott Evans: Thanks everyone for your time and hard work. Kristine Dorrain - Amazon Registry Services: Thanks everyone.

Lori Schulman:good meeting

Kathy: Good discussion!

Philip Corwin:Bye all/stay warm

Ariel Liang:thanks everyone
