If yes, please briefly describe:

Answered: 5 Skipped: 9

Responses:

1. The relief awarded by the URS process is inadequate. In some cases, a losing Respondent is able to re-register a domain once it becomes available.
2. After the lock, the cybersquatters just renew the domain name.
3. Any problems with Chinese Registrar in order to implement the decision
4. Registrars often do not respond to the request for renewal of the suspension.
5. Some registrars do not understand the process of paying for an additional year of suspension.

TOTAL		12

If your response to question 5 is "Disagree" or "Strongly disagree", how would you change it?

Answered: 8 Skipped: 6

Responses:

1. A winning Complainant should have the option of either a) transfer of the domain to Complainant or b) a right of first refusal to purchase the domain when it next becomes available.
2. transfer or annulation of the domain name
3. Allow for cancellation or transfer of domain names
4. Include transfer as a remedy in the event of default.
5. A possible remedy should be the transfer of the domain name
6. Suspension is good, but the respondent can re-register.
7. After the lock, the cybersquatters just renew the domain name. It's turning out to be a worthless remedy.
8. There needs to be an established process for requesting suspension renewals. Often, when Registrars are contacted regarding renewal, the Registrars are unaware of the renewal option or simply does not reply.

If you answered "Disagree" or "Strongly disagree", should it be higher or lower, and why? Or, please suggest what you think is an appropriate fee:

Answered: 1 Skipped: 13

Response:

The response fee should be triggered at 5 domains in a single case rather than 15 as provided in the current FORUM Supplemental Rules. 5 domains is sufficient to demonstrate a "pattern of conduct" and thus impose upon a respondent a requirement to participate in funding the case.

Answered: 4 Skipped: 10

Responses:

1. 500 words is arbitrary and often insufficient
2. Some cases need more explanations than others
3. Word limit for complaints should be kept low but raised to 1,000 to accommodate things like case citations
4. should be slightly increased

7. Do you believe the existing time frames for submitting filings in a URS proceeding are appropriate?*

Answered: 12 Skipped: 2

If you answered "Disagree" or "Strongly disagree", should it be longer or shorter, and why?

Answered: 3 Skipped: 11

Responses:

1. If the URS is meant to be a faster proceeding, why allow 14-days for a response? the timelines should be shorter.
2. Time for seeking de novo review should be reduced to a single 30-day period. If a registrant hasn't noticed that its domain and website are suspended within that time, the domain is clearly not of great importance to them.
3. The default and appeal filing windows should be shorter.

Answered: 3 Skipped: 11

Responses:

1. Often exhibits are required to prove a point that can't be captured in 500 words
2. Regarding submission of evidence, allowance should be made for evidence of cybersquatting beyond what may be shown in a resolving website. E.g., evidence of other bad faith activities such as phishing emails should be more easily accommodated in the URS process.
3. Need clearer way to submit additional evidence

Responses:

8 -- Yes

2 -- No

2 -- Conditional

1. Yes. It is an unfortunate limitation that it is not more widely available.
2. no too risky regarding the burden of proof
3. Probably, depending on the desired outcome
4. Yes, it is a useful, less expensive tool than the UDRP when used for appropriate cases.
5. I would if we could obtain the transfer of the domain name
6. Yes. It is efficient.
7. Yes. Some domains/websites simply need to be deactivated to prevent harm. It's not necessary to have all domains transferred as this can lead to expensive bloating of a brand owner's defensive domain portfolio.
8. No
9. Yes
10. Yes
11. Yes, oftentimes the client only want control of the domain to remove infringing content and does not wish to register the domain. URS suspension would achieve the same result in less time.
12. Yes, as some domains do not warrant the full UDRP fee and transfer, but should still be suspended.
