Glenn McKnight:This is the FBSC submissions

Glenn McKnight:Judith is submitting one, The Indigenous Fellowship is now the GLOBAL

Glenn McKnight:Folks if you recall the Network Neutrality was a issue brought up by the community

Glenn McKnight:It's not a ICANN issue but our community issue, especially the US citizens

Glenn McKnight:@Heidi is that old hand?

Glenn McKnight>Welcome John, Joe and Yubelkys

Glenn McKnight:Will the slides be available after the call?

Mario Aleman:Sure, we can upload the slides, Glenn

Glenn McKnight:Can everyone hear Mark?

Glenn McKnight:he is low for me but it might be my phone

Mario Aleman:I hear Mark

Bill Jouris:It's not a complex *policy* issue. It's just a complex *political* issue.

Glenn McKnight>Welcome Bill Jouris, Allan Skuce, Dustin and Eve

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):I'm not sure I entirely agree

Eduardo Díaz - ALS:@Jonathan: You do not entirely agree with what?

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):not a complex *policy* issue

William Michael Cunningham:Not sure this is an appropriate forum for this topic. Technically, hard to discuss on this tool. Also, would like more input on how this discussion is set up.

William Michael Cunningham:Don't really agree with much of this discussion, but whatever. I would have invited an FCC Commissioner to discuss.

William Michael Cunningham:This is not the crux of the matter, but whatever.

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):I think net neutrality (if that's what you mean) is entirely appropriate to discuss here, but as you say, not easy to discuss with this tool.

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:+1 @eve

Glenn McKnight:Very interesting session on CBC Spark on the NN issue . I have been posting from a Canadian perspective. Perhaps Mark can you address the impact on Canada of the FCC repeal

Glenn McKnight:thanks

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):Very interested in Canadian (and all) perspective(s)

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):<Comment> Me must all remeber that "network neutrality" -the idea that network pipes must be agnostic to what data flows through them - has ALWAYS been an an INTERNET core principle. Obama era NN rules simply made the policy legally binding in the US. The idea is that Internet service should be like phone service: can a phone company make your connection worse if it disapproves who you call? No, of course. And neither should your ISP.

Glenn McKnight:Please mute your line if not speaking

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:+1 Javier, absolutely!

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):+1 @javier

Bill Jouris:+1 Javier

Glenn McKnight:correct

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):Which would be much clearer and more lasting

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:very glad we are not hearing from an FCC commissioner on this topic. Tend to be full of political speak which doesn't ever get down to the core of how it messes with the masses

William Michael Cunningham:So your'e telling me that a technical stsyem designed to block and throttle certain names or numbers will have no impact on the organization charged with names and numbers. That may be the canadian perspective, but it is not realistic.

Glenn McKnight:Good point. Dr. Andrew Clement has done some good work on the Digital Sovereignty

Glenn McKnight:All Canadian email goes through the US sites and under the NSA rules

Ron da Silva:would love to discuss this topic in better forum..

Bill Jouris:William, perhaps the question is not "will it have an impact" but "is there anything that ICANN can effectively do about it?"

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:Impacts ICANN, but not yet its jurisdiction... Maybe it should be?

William Michael Cunningham:Matthew - wrong. I dont; know if you have ever spoken with one. I appreciate your lack of faith in the policy makers responsible for this

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):No!

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:not a question

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):I disagree with William. This is a great forum to discuss and move on. But we better get to ICANN-remit relevance of NN!

Glenn McKnight:Launch of IXmaps Internet Mapping tool enables Canadians to see exactly where their data travels online

William Michael Cunningham:Western governance organizations have never kept civil rights promises. Whose land are we on now? Ask the natives....it's not even a question.

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):and not just other countries. the FCC has a LOT of power under Title II that they are simply choosing not to exercise in the near term

Judith hellerstein:was traveling to NYC and my train was delayed

Ron da Silva:@zuck related is also not all operators have same tax or subsidie or right-of-ways or franchise rights/privileges - so title II linkage introduces other inequities

Glenn McKnight:Welcome Judith

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):Yes @Ron. I'm most concerned about censorship at the moment and this absolutist view about traffic prioritization.

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:@William, as a Native, it is still our responsibility to be informed and work on the issues and try to hold the government accountable, not just lay down and let it happen because of the history of the behaviour

Glenn McKnight:Please put your hand up if you have comments or questions

Glenn McKnight:Please identify yourself

William Michael Cunningham:Does anyone have a policy suggestion for ICANN with respect to this issue?

Glenn McKnight:@William who are you addressing the questoin to? Is it to Heidi?

William Michael Cunningham:Glenn - the group.

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):yes

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):I mean yes I can hear him

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):i will put a cooment in chat soon

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):@zuck has given me more to think about, before I try to comment further

William Michael Cunningham:I have a hard stop in 5 minutes. So, on the most important technical issue to come down the pike in the last 10 years, this group has nothing to say formally.

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):I am involved in other groups that take positions on this, outside of NARALO/ICANN

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:Do you @William? What are your suggestions?

Glenn McKnight:I think most of us are active in Non ICANN groups that are proactive . ie. ISOC etc

William Michael Cunningham:https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A\_\_www.fcc.gov\_ecfs\_filing\_60001013701&d=DwlFaQ&c=FmY1u3PJP6wrcrwl3mSVzgfbPSS6sJms7xcl4I5cM&r=CXERzlwS\_vaPY8WrLB9yz2PICpecEh3yA9MaabnyBk&m=nL2trpGb1cCJYogplNLSITnv6gbmxL2LgFM7IFZc6AA&s=k\_bNJvuivPZONrGMI4qMdSrDyYft47nKFateYiOrqXQ&e=

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):which is why congress should handle it

William Michael Cunningham:Not really about me making ANOTHER helpful suggestion.

William Michael Cunningham:Yes, but what if you are wrong?

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):And other factors will be involved: like the intervention of the big content companies in the lawsuit, and possibly technical developments - growth in local municipal networks, for one thing.

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):Comment: Obama-era "Net Neutrality" rules, are the legal obligations that forbid Internet Service Providers (ISPs) from blocking access to your websites of choice and which proscribe the speeding up of web contents and websites through premium, paid prioritization lanes or other means, in detriment of and/or throttling down other content. The Democrat led FCC, under Thomas Wheeler, enacted as regulatory norms these longstanding policies norms after placing the Internet under Title II of the Federal Communications Act, thus reclassifying it a "telecommunications service" subject to administrative oversight. Chairman Pai, is mild mannered and — in my view — a well-intentioned public official, that holds that the cable companies and other ISPs will self-regulate; an ideological belief in the invisible hand of competitive forces guiding markets towards loftier goals than pure profit and progressive consolidation. I think he is mistaken. Although some companies will behave, [cont..]

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:Native Americans are completely opposed to the removal of Netowrk Neutrality safeguards. We are still battling to get access. We'd like access to an unfiltered, unblocked resource... Not just some slice of what some c coroporation sees as the

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:solution

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:+1 Javier

Glenn McKnight:William has his hand up

William Michael Cunningham:Hand up

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC): [...] experience shows that even under the relatively lax rules still in place, some like Comcast, Verizon and others turn out to be recidivist offenders.Voiding Title II Net Neutrality protections will allow money to progressively be the prime determiner of what information reaches you, and a tool for drowning out content of lesser economic means.The issue is important. The Internet is being cornered by large ISPs (so-called "Big Cable"); the startups of yesterday are giant, powerful multinationals today. And the rights of individual users, our ability to assert these rights in appropriate and accessible fora will soon disappear.No doubt that markets and technical innovation must continue to be the main drivers of Internet evolution, deployment and adoption. But no market can be truly free without regulatory boundaries.Examples abound: extreme deregulation prompted savings and loans failures, securities and bond fraud, sub-prime lending abuses, and the distorting effects of unlimited money {cont...}

Yubelkys Montalvo:no

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):[...]of unlimited money in the electoral process, under guise of First Amendment liberty.Competition is good, it is essential, but no market is perfect. Market distortions require empowered and enlightened consumers, able to assert and enforce their rights.Although I think Net Neutrality 'repeal and replace' is a fait accompli by the current FCC, I am certain the debate will not end.It will take a future Democratic administration in the White House and in the FCC to reverse the damage and restore our free and open Internet.

Glenn McKnight:Can we take a poll

Matthew Rantanen - Native Public Media:Yes, let's vote

Glenn McKnight:Mario can you post a poll

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):By when would we need to come up with a coherent statement?

Ron da Silva:@Javier - Obama rule prohibited fast lanes even if they don't impact the "regular" best effort traffic lanes, subtle but very important difference

judith hellerstein 2:i do not think a statement is needed

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):agreed @ron

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):Question: Has ISOC expressed agreement or disagreement with AJIT PAI'S policies?

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):excuse typos

Glenn McKnight>Please add your agreement with a GREEN Check mark or RED X if you disagree

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):@WMC, downloaded your FCC comment to read

Bill Jouris:Glenn, exactly WHAT are you asking us to agree or disagree with?

Glenn McKnight:William 's request for a statement

Ron da Silva:NARALO "could" make a statement.. but kind of hard to agree without first coming up with a statement.. so is the question, "Should we work on a statement?" or is the question, "Should we make a statement?"

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):is it a poll? or just type here?

Yubelkys Montalvo:not sure

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):Maybe the question is not whether ICANN should comment a provincial administrative norm from one country. Maybe NARALO should say something?

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):@wmc I see your point, but I don't think we'll have consensus right now.

Ron da Silva:please clarify the "question" ?

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):no (for now)

Tom Lowenhaupt:But please qualify the vote.

Susannah Gray (SF-Bay ISOC Chapter):Eve, click on the hands up icon and a drop down menu will show the check marks

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):@Ron. I guess "working on one" is a defacto plan to share one. It's a philosophical issue, a political issue, an implementation issue, etc. etc.

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):ok thx done

Ron da Silva:@zuck.. working on one is a task.. perhaps if in working on that task we can't come up with a consensus based statement then it becomes a "no" ?

Tom Lowenhaupt:What statement?

John More:no place for my X I can see

John More:probably because Dustin represents ISOC-DCð

Mark Buell:Thanks, everyone. If you have questions, you can reach me at buell@isoc.org

judith hellerstein 2:Hi John for the record under the hand raised icon you move it down further and see the agree/disagree

Javier rua Jovet (ALAC):Comment: I dont think we should comment particular administrative action from one country. But We can all agree that we support -that we must support- Network Neutrality. If not, we should be kicked out from ICANN.

judith hellerstein 2:Thanks mark for your presentation

Eve Edelson (SF bay area chapter):+1 @javier

Heidi Ullrich:Her request is being processed and should be announced shortly.

Jonathan Zuck (Indie):@Javier - of course but part of the task will be defining it

judith hellerstein 2:@heidi confused about your chat
